Red Cross is committed to providing the best possible programs and services

Red Cross is bound by seven 'Fundamental Principles' that guide everything we do:

- the principle of humanity is about us preventing and easing suffering wherever it is found and promoting respect
- the principle of impartiality requires us to act without discrimination and to make sure that we work with those people who are most in need
- the principle of voluntary service commits us to using the power of humanity and the willingness of community members to share their time and abilities to assist those in need.

The other principles are neutrality, independence, unity and universality and you can learn more about them on the Red Cross website or by asking one of the staff or volunteers.
