Red Cross is collecting these image/s from you direct, or from your relatives.

Red Cross is collecting your story/image or the story/image of your relative/s, when it takes the interview, photograph or makes the video, for use to promote the charitable work of Red Cross. The story/image/s might be printed in magazines or newspapers, used as videos, or posted on Facebook or the internet or used as posters or on television. When it records the story/image/s Red Cross will own them and you and/or _____, will not be able to make any claims against Red Cross relating to the use of the story/image/s .

Red Cross might change the story/image/s. Some of the organisations it might share them with are television stations, government and companies or bodies Red Cross works with. You agree that Red Cross can use the story/image/s, in this way, and that Red Cross will not pay you, or that person, any money for the use of the story/image/s.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders people must know Red Cross might keep using the story/image/s for several years and, while Red Cross will try to stop using them after a person's death, this may not always be possible.

You do not have to agree to Red Cross using the story/images. You can also ask Red Cross to stop using the story/image/s at any time, but if they are already printed, it may be some time before that is changed.

Red Cross will try its best to make sure that you are respected and protected in the use of the story/image/s, that the story/image/s will be used appropriately. You can also ask Red Cross to provide you with copies of the story/image/s.

The recording of these story/ image/s is covered by privacy law. You can obtain a copy of the Red Cross Privacy Policy from us by contacting General Counsel, Australian Red Cross Society, 155 Pelham Street, Carlton 3053, or from the internet www.redcross.org.au. You can make a privacy complaint to General Counsel, Red Cross at that address, or by email to privacy@redcross.org.au or to the Privacy Commissioner www.oaic.gov.au.

I consent, on my behalf, or on behalf of _____ to Red Cross using the story/photos/videos.
